Rev. E. G. Weed will be ordained Priest, by Bishop Beckwith, in the village of Summerville, on Friday. The negro boy Patrick Brown, who was shot by Frank Miller, a [illegible], died on the 26th instant.—Augusta Constitutionalist.

The ladies of the Lutheran Church in Savannah realized $1,200 from their recent fair. The theatre was crowded in Savannah on the occasion of the second appearance of Mrs. [illegible]ton. Boquets and baskets of rare and beautiful flowers in the greatest profusion were laid at her feet. The body of Miles O'Rourke, of Savannah, was found on the 27th in the canal at the foot of Mill street. He had been missed from home since the 17th instant. The office of Sink Inspector has been created in Savannah with a salary of $2,000.—Daily Advertiser.

On the evening of the 26th, as Isaac Russell, one of the Representatives of Chatham county, was returning to his home, he was attacked by a gang of negroes, who fired a number of pistol shots at him, and subsequently attempted to choke him. None of the balls wounded Mr. Russell, though there are six perforations in his pants and coat. Mr. Russell cannot imagine what the motive was which prompted the negroes to attack him. Alpeora Bradley has had his case up in Savannah. White, Deveaux and Butts were arrested and admitted to bail.—Savannah News.

Johnny Dacy, aged 14 years, a step son of Mr. Patrick Payton, of Macon, accidently shot himself by discharging a load from a shot gun into his throat on the morning of the 27th instant. On the 23d instant, at Griswoldville, Mr. Hubbard Reynolds, of Twiggs county, was stabbed in several places in the body by a negro named Amos Griswold. Mr R. is still living, but no hopes are entertained of his recovery. A negro man, named John Sparrow, living at Maxwell's Mills, in Jones county, was murdered in his house by unknown parties, on the night of the 25th instant.—Macon Telegraph and Messenger.

CAMP AT SHELTONVILLE, GA., }
December 27, 1871. }

Editors Constitution: Our little party of Engineers, encamped at this place, have just passed through our merry Christmas in a splendid manner. Accepting an invitation from Judge J. Graham and his amiable lady, we left camp about noon, Christmas day, for their elegant residence at Warsaw, on the banks of the Chattahoochee, where the Judge and his lady entertained us in a splendid manner. A fine collation of turkey with other fixings and all the delicacies of the season awaited us on our arrival, and if you had been with us, and had seen how quickly the table was cleared, you would have remarked that we appreciated extremely well good things. After dinner Miss Graham, and Miss Orr, of Lawrenceville, very agreeably entertained us with some select music. We left for camp after dark greatly indebted to the Judge and his lady for their hospitality. On our way we were compelled to stop at the residence of A. T. Abbott, where an egg-nog awaited us. After doing justice to this, we listened to some fine singing and playing by Mrs. Abbott.

We reached camp finally right side up, all of us unanimously asserting that this day had been one of the pleasantest in our lives. All honor to such big hearted ladies and gentlemen, may they live a thousand years.

We have started our work again with renewed courage, and shall cross the Chattahoochee in a very few days.

Yours truly,
D. T. MILLING,
Assistant Engineer on the Great Western and Atlantic Canal Survey.

[illegible] Review (London,) of November [illegible] "[illegible] Literary Author[illegible] [illegible] Geographies."

[illegible] no department of literature [illegible] which Americans [illegible] the superiority of [illegible] average quality or [illegible] public [illegible] as our readers [illegible] varied and general [illegible] our own, and [illegible] works of the [illegible] are yearly published [illegible] the country. [illegible]ed, there is no [illegible] the entire recent [illegible] as important as [illegible] of books, perhaps, [illegible] manifest than in [illegible] use of schools and [illegible] must make one important [illegible] to the general rule and the [illegible]ple. Upon Geography and [illegible] Americans have written [illegible] carefully, stimulated and assisted [illegible] by the energetic encouragement which the Federal Government has constantly given to exploration of every kind in almost every part of the Western Continent. Geographers proper, geologists, mineralogists, and naturalists have been enabled to pursue their inquiries at the public cost, and have been encouraged to pains-taking investigation, and to the publication of ample records of their discoveries by the interest which all classes of Americans have always manifested in these subjects. It is no doubt to their peculiar situation, as a people of civilization and unresting enterprise, in possession of an immense, rich, and imperfectly known territory, that this interest is due; and it has led apparently to a study of geography much more general and thorough than is common in English schools. As the demand creates the supply, the American text-books of geography are often more complete and certainly much better calculated to fulfil their purpose of instruction than our own. Dr. M. F. Maury's series, one of which we have already had occasion to notice, are especially adapted to excite the curiosity of boys and girls, and to make that which, as taught to our children, is about the dullest and most tedious of all matters of routine, the agreable and interesting subject it ought to be. The volume now before us is fitted to be the delight of any school-room in which the teacher is not utterly and hopelessly unfit to teach. It contrives to make the geographical definitions to which children are so rarely taught to attach a meaning intelligible at sight, by an illustration in which each of the common terms of physical geography—continent, island, sound, strait, ocean, sea, mountain, tableland, &c.—is clearly presented to the reader's eye. It contains, not only the ordinary maps which show the political demarcations of mankind, but physical maps in which the great natural features of every region are shown with equal distinctness. And, finally, a multitude of illustrations attach a living interest and visible meaning to the multitude of names and facts which form the drudgery of geography; presenting to the sight and intelligence of the pupil characteristic scenes which his memory will ever after associate with the names of capitals, the course of rivers, the local scenery, the fauna, history, and industrial occupations which the writers of English text-books compel him to learn by rote. We can heartily recommend this volume, and its companion, to the use of every family and to the higher classes of every school; and we are sure that where it is adopted the geography [illegible] will become suddenly and surprisingly popular.

Beethoven said of Handel: "He is the [illegible] of the musical kingdom—the greatest [illegible] that ever lived. I would un[illegible] head and kneel before his tomb."

How They Live in Canton.

Hon. James Brooks writes to the New York Express, that Canton is the happiest looking city I have seen in China, and everywhere the people seem ready for fun. Children are born in the boats, and live all their lives in the boats, and the mother of them often rows or sculls with a child strapped on her back. Upon some of these children are tied bamboo floats, so that if the darling tumbles overboard, it is easily fished up and in. Then there are grand boat restaurants, where parties go, as to Delmonico's, to feast, free from the dead air of the narrow streets, and enjoying the free air of the river.

At night the river is gayer than the city, for the gates of the city—gates by the scores within the great walls of the city—obstruct all night locomotion, while the river is open and free. I love to revel in a house boat at night, breathe the good air, hear the squeaking guitar or harp of the Chinamen, see the fire-crackers, peep into his restaurants, hear the babies squall and mothers and fathers snore. Canton city is divided by its streets into hundreds of compartments at night, and in or over each compartment is a gate, closed at night.

For order and peace every little community within these gates is responsible to the authorities, for there is no local police. The system works well—shuts up shops at dark, sends people to bed early, thus prepares them to rise early; stops all night gadding, all theatre going, all soirees and evening parties, all courting and billing, and cooing, brings home husband early, and keeps him from straying at night. There is a river police, which cruise about the river at night and bangs into you if you do not sail straight.

These miserable men are lying with their breast-bones on the edge of the crater, looking over with firmly compressed lips and dilated eyes, trying to catch a word now and then. When they succeed in catching one they string it on a piece of paper, and lean over the crater for another. When caught, they string it with the others, the whole process reminding one of fishing for trout, lacking only the absence of hook and line to make the picture complete."

Dr. Radway's Sarsaparillian Resolvent

Has made the most astonishing Cures; so quick, so rapid are the changes the Body undergoes, under the influence of this Truly Wonderful Medicine, that

EVERY DAY AN INCREASE IN FLESH AND WEIGHT IS SEEN AND FELT.

THE GREAT BLOOD PURIFIER.

Every drop of the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT communicates through the Blood, Sweat, Urine, and other fluids and juices of the system the vigor of life, for it repairs the wastes of the body with new and sound material. Scrofula, Syphilis, Consumption, Glandular disease, Ulcers in the throat, Mouth, Tumors, Nodes in the Glands and other parts of the system, Sore Eyes, Strumorous discharges from the Ears and the worst forms of Skin diseases, Eruptions, Fevers, Sores, Scald Head, Ring Worm, Salt Rheum, Erysipelas, Acne, Black Spots, Worms in the Flesh, Tumors, Cancers in the Womb, and all weakening and painful discharges, Night Sweats, Loss of Sperm and all wastes of the life principle, are within the curative range of this wonder of Modern Chemistry, and a few days' use will prove to any person using it for either of these forms of disease its potent powers to cure them.

If the patient, daily becoming reduced by the wastes and decomposition that is continually progressing, succeeds in arresting these wastes, and repairs the same with new material made from healthy blood—and this the SARSAPARILLIAN will and does secure—a cure is certain; for when once this remedy commences its work of purification, and succeeds in diminishing the loss of wastes, its repairs will be rapid, and every day the patient will feel himself growing better and stronger, the food digesting better, appetite improving, and flesh and weight increasing.

Not only does the SARSAPARILLIAN RESOLVENT excel all known remedial agents in the cure of Chronic, Scrofulous, Constitutional, and Skin diseases; but it is the only positive cure for

The Atlanta Constitution FOR 1872.

This year promises to be second to none in local and national importance. The great Presidential contest between the Democratic and Republican parties, or between Constitutionalism and the Rights of States upon the one side, and Centralism and Imperialism upon the other, will agitate the country to its remotest corners.

In State affairs the times will be no less eventful. Just emerging from a terrible crisis, the people of Georgia will soon see the final developments of the Radical drama enacted in the State since the close of the war. Besides, there will be the regular election for Governor.

THE CONSTITUTION has a corps of correspondents, domestic and foreign, unsurpassed by any journal in the South. It is published at the capital, and furnishes full Reports of Legislative Proceedings and the Supreme Court, together with Telegraphic and Commercial News from all parts of the World.

Being at the political centre of Georgia, it has superior advantages to obtain the latest political and general intelligence.

THE CONSTITUTION is now the OFFICIAL ORGAN of the State of Georgia and the Democratic party. Having been unanimously elected at the last session of the General Assembly. It is also the official paper of this city and county.

To the people of Southwest Georgia we desire to call attention to the fact, that THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION now reaches them with the Macon papers of the same date.

Every one who would keep up with the times, and have an intelligent, well-informed household, should by all means take his local paper and one FROM THE CAPITAL.

THE CONSTITUTION now visits every section of State, and as an advertising medium is equal to the best.

How the Big Bugs Spree It.

It is a soothing reflection to the humble slave of social peccadilloes to know that he has companionship in his little irregularities in the big bugs of the Government. The value of this soother can not be estimated. It is very encouraging.

The following statements will be a tender salve to many a poor chap who has been on a bender and landed in the calaboose for trifling indiscretions of spirituous indulgence. When the Government can unbend from its stately sobriety and get boozy, and do all sorts of wabbly didoes, the noble souls of common fellows, whose weak heads have succumbed to the irresistible seductions of a spree, will find exalted encouragement in the inebriating example.

Grant and Fish deserve the gratitude of every jolly old sot in the country.

A correspondent of the New York Sun, writing from Washington, under date of December 20th, says:

About five o'clock last evening the loungers in the main hall of the Arlington House, were astonished to see the door of the elevator open and President Grant and Don Hamilton Fish step out of it arm in arm. The President's face was as red as a boiled lobster, and the Secretary of State wore an expression like that of an owl which is suddenly brought into the full glare of the daylight. It immediately entered into the minds of those who were in the hall at the time that the President and the Secretary had been enjoying themselves pretty freely in one of the rooms up stairs.

The two paid no attention to anybody, but marched solemnly, and with stately tread, through the hall to the street door, where they stopped, and Grant went through some motions with his hands, which were indistinguishable in the darkness. At the same moment Mr. Fish tripped hurriedly back to the clerk's desk, and fumbled in the match safe until he had secured half a dozen matches. With these in his hands, and his face beaming all over with maudlin smiles, he skipped to the door again, scratching a match against the jamb, and held it obsequiously until Grant had lighted a cigar, which had in his mouth. The two then locked [illegible] once more, and meandered into darkness. This little incident was observed by [illegible] a dozen witnesses, and has created [illegible] deal of talk this morning in certain [illegible] yond [illegible]

English Lessons for English People, by Rev. Edwin A. Abbott, M. A., and J. R. Seeley, M. A.

The study of the English language is exciting extraordinary interest everywhere at the present time. Separate chairs of English Literature are being established in the colleges of both continents. The rage for ancient classics is to some extent giving way to an earnest effort to develop the hidden wealth of our mother tongue.

The above work meets the popular demand. Its authors are ripe scholars and men of wide reputation. We believe that "English Lessons" would serve as an admirable textbook for our literary institutions. This is one of the many valuable publications of Roberts Brothers, Boston.

Opera.

There is no better test of the culture of a community than a taste for fine arts, and matters of cultivated refinement. Pictures, music, oratory, literature are all the subjects of polished taste. Show us a people that love and encourage these things liberally, and we will show you a people where the highest education has been added to inherent fondness for the beautiful and the elevating.

And it should be a special aim with parents to give children every opportunity of purifying, chastening, broadening and developing their natural capabilities for the artistic. The effect upon character cannot be estimated. The growing mind imbibes ideas of refinement, and habits of chaste sentiment that beautify life and preserve from evil.

It is not often that we have opportunities of seeing exhibitions of taste in their highest perfection. Such opportunities should be improved.

The opera company now playing here is a fine one. The members are true artists. Their music is in the best style of disciplined art.

A New Paper in Griffin.

Having, by experience abroad, become fully satisfied that Griffin is as good a place to live and make a living in as any in Georgia, I have made up my mind to return, and on the 16th day of January, commence the publication of a live morning paper, to be called "The Griffin Daily News."

The paper will be published in the interest of no party, clique, faction, or ring, or in the interest of any individual except myself.

It will be independent in politics—advocating only the right as it is given me to understand what is right.

The purpose of the paper will be to give the news, true news, news at home and from abroad, commercial, general and political news, all prepared in such a manner as to give the most of it in the most readable shape.

People who want to patronize such a paper as this, are invited to come up with their subscriptions and advertisements. The News will be printed on good clear type, at five dollars per annum for the daily, and one dollar and fifty cents per annum for the weekly.

A. M. SPEIGHTS.

December 27, 1871.

The Newspaper Press.

Rev. T. D. W. Talmage, of Brooklyn, in a recent sermon, presented the following earnest, stirring thoughts respecting the power and capabilities of the newspaper press. An instrumentality of such vast influence as is this in our day should be wielded by those who appreciate their momentous responsibility, and employ it for the improvement and elevation of their fellowmen. The eloquent discourse is reported phonographically in the Methodist:

"The newspaper is the great educator of the Nineteenth Century. There is no force compared with it. It is book, pulpit, platform, forum, all in one. And there is not an interest—religious, literary, commercial, scientific, agricultural or mechanical—that is not within its grasp. All our churches, and schools, and colleges, and asylums, and art galleries feel the quaking of the printing press.

In our pulpits we preach to a few hundreds or thousands of people; the newspaper addresses an audience of twenty thousand, fifty thousand, or two hundred thousand. We preach three or four times a week; they every morning or evening of the year. If they are right, they are gloriously right; if they are wrong, they are awfully wrong.

I find no difficulty in accounting for the world's advance. What has made the change? "Books," you say. No, sir. The vast majority of citizens do not read books. In the United States the people would not average one book a year for each individual. Whence then this intelligence—this capacity to talk about all themes, secular and religious, this acquaintance with science and art, this power to appreciate the beautiful and grand? Next to the Bible, the newspaper—swift-winged and everywhere present—flying over the fence, shoved under the door, tossed into the counting-house, laid on the work-bench hawked through the cars! All read it! White and black, German, Irishman, Swiss, Spaniard, American, old and young, good and bad, sick and well, before breakfast and after tea, Monday morning, Saturday night, Sunday and week day.

I consider the newspaper to be the grand agency by which the gospel is to be preached, ignorance cast out, oppression dethroned, crime extirpated, the world raised, heaven rejoiced, and God glorified. In the clanking of the printing press as the sheets fly out I hear the voice of the Lord Almighty proclaiming to all the dead nations of the earth, "Lazarus, come forth!" and to the retreating surges of darkness, "Let there be light."

"Nations are to be born in a day." Will this great in-rush into the kingdom of God come from the personal presence of missionary or philanthropist? No. When the time comes for that grand demonstration of the Spirit, I think the press in all the earth will make the announcement, and give the call to the nations. At some telegraphic center, an operator will send the messages North and South, and East and West, San Francisco and Heart's Content catching the flash at the same instant; so, standing at some center to which shall reach all the electric wires that cross the continent and undergird the sea, some one shall, with the forefinger of the right hand click the instrument that shall thrill through all lands, across all islands, under all seas, through all palaces, into all dungeons, and startle both hemispheres with the news, that in a few moments shall rush out from the ten thousand times ten thousand printing presses of the earth: "Jesus hath come! Fall into line, all ye nations! Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace, good-will toward men! Hallelujah!"

The Free School Question.

FOREST HILL, MILTON CO.,
December 26, 1871.

Editors Constitution: The failure of the Legislature, during its late session, to act definitely upon the question of popular education, excited in me a sense of deep regret. I regard it as a matter of vital importance to the real interests of the State, as lying at the very foundation of its material, moral and social advancement. No argument is needed to establish this view in the present age and generation; the effects of the system are visible in the prosperity of the Northern States, and it is the part of wisdom not to close the eye and ear to salutary instruction even when the teacher is our enemy.

It is to be hoped that our law-makers will take this matter up at their next session and act promptly. The pecuniary aspect should not deter them. It is false economy to keep money in the pocket rather than to expend it in the introduction of knowledge into the head. It is pandering to the sordid disposition, rather than fostering the intellectual faculties. The people of the Empire State of the South, although they have been robbed, after the previous impoverishment by the war, are amply able to sustain a good school system, and to pay for the education of their children. The Legislature is vested with the power to enact a law for this purpose, and it is a duty incumbent upon them to do it. They are empowered to enact laws for the punishment of crime, a fortiori, they are empowered to enact laws to prevent crime. And who is bold enough to say that to elevate the people intellectually, does not directly tend to elevate them socially and morally, and hence to remove further and further the temptation to violate law.

Some act unobjectionable in every feature, save the expenditure of money, can be devised for the accomplishment of the purpose. The machinery of its operation should be simple in the highest degree. A superintendent for each county to be selected by the grand jury. His duty to examine applicants for teachers' positions, employ them, and exercise a general supervision of the educational affairs of his county. State appropriations to be paid to the Ordinaries by the State Treasurer. Deficits in teachers' salaries to be made up by direct tax upon the property-holders of the several school districts. Schools to continue uninterruptedly for at least six months in the year. This plan will work satisfactorily when tried. And it will be discovered that the tax paid for this specific purpose, even by the largest property-holders, will, as a general thing, be less in amount than the tuition fees hitherto required of them. Another important feature is, that such plan will create no invidious distinctions on account of wealth; all are taxed alike, and no one is the recipient of a poor fund. Hence the attendance will be general, and the benefits of the system be widely diffused.

These suggestions have been thrown out in the hope that the subject may be taken up by the press and the people and thoroughly discussed, and that the Legislature may do something for the thousands of children in this noble State, who, with bright faculties and immense capacities for future good, are growing in ignorance, and are growing rapidly up without a promise and without a hope. Very respectfully,

C. H. C.

For the Ladies.

[CONDENSED FOR THE CONSTITUTION.]

A country editor says that when he looks at a woman's head, he is puzzled to tell which is switch.

The women of Scotland are crowing loudly because thirty of their sex have been admitted to Edinburgh University.

Mrs. Eleanor D. Rockwood, of Boston, has been invited to take the editorship of a leading political journal in Essex county, Massachusetts.

The fashion of wearing eye glasses is becoming more and more prevalent among very young ladies. It does not appear to be affectation, but probably arises from the fondness inherent in the female mind for spectacles of all kinds.

The New York Mail asserts that "Many fashionable ladies who are partial to low-necked dresses, and have not a pretty neck, wear a false neck of wax or alabaster, which, when a heavy necklace is worn with it, can hardly be detected from the real article.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, December 29.—A letter is published from the Queen, in which she says she desires to express her deep sense of touching sympathy exhibited for her family by the whole nation at the illness of her dear son Wales. The universal expressions of sympathy, she says, has made an ineffaceable impression on her heart. The letter concludes with the hope that her faithful subjects will continue their prayers for the complete recovery of the Prince.

CHEESE IN CANS.—The proprietor of an Illinois factory communicates to the Prairie Farmer some notes of his experience in putting up cheese in cases. It must be previously well cured, then sealed air-tight, and kept in a cool place. Thus treated, it is safe from flies, retains all its weight, and grows more mellow and fine-flavored, and no loss occurs from exposure in shipping. Mr. Willard, in his report of dairy practices in England, states that the dealers there have long been in the habit of using these cases in sending cheese to the East Indies and to tropical climates, and that, ordinarily, it reaches its destination in as good condition as when first put up. Some of the small German cheese are cased in tin, but the quantity is very limited. The cost of packing thus is an objection, and the practice could not, Mr. W. thinks, be adopted with profit, excepting for shipment to countries where comparatively high prices prevail, or for small lots of "fancy quality."

THE OLDEN TIME.—In his speech on civil service reform, the other day in the Senate, Mr. Trumbull says:

In olden times removal from subordinate government officers were of rare occurrence. There were only nine removals during the eight years of Washington's administration, and only one during that of the elder Adams. Even Jefferson, who, when he came into power, found the offices filled with his political adversaries, removed only thirty-nine persons during the two terms. Madison removed but five in his eight years Monroe only nine, and John Q. Adams only two. In those days men were appointed to office for their fidelity to the Constitution, their ability and integrity and not for mere partisan reasons.

☞ A young dandy, who has just returned from abroad, appeared at a New York ball last week, elegantly attired in full dress suit, with diamond studs and sleeve buttons, point lace necktie, three-buttoned gloves, hair powdered with blonde powder, French heels to his boots, a strong suspicion of rouge on his cheeks, and a piece of court-plaster on his forehead. The girls made so much fun of him that he retired before supper.—Picayune.

☞ A clergyman wished to know whether the children of his parishioners understood their Bible. He asked a lad whom he found one day reading the Old Testament, who was the wickedest man.

"Moses, to be sure," said the boy.

"Moses," exclaimed the parson, "how can that be?"

"Why," said the lad, "he broke all the commandments at once."

WHO IS OLD?—A wise man will never rust out. As long as he can move and breathe he will be doing for himself, his neighbor or his posterity. Who is old? Not the man of energy—not the day laborer in science, art or benevolence—but he only who suffers his energies to waste away and the springs of life to become motionless: on whose hands the hours drag heavily, and to whom all things wear the garb of gloom.

☞ "Ma, I am going to make some soft soap for the fair this fall!" said a beautiful miss of seventeen to her mother, the other day. "What put that notion into your head, Sally?" "Why, ma, the premium is just what I have been wanting." "Pray what is it?" "A 'Worcester Farmer,' I hope he will be a good looking one."

☞ A rural poet indited a sonnet to his sweetheart, entitled "I kissed her sub r sa." The compositor knew better than that, and set it up in printer's Latin: "I kissed her snub nose."

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

In the inscrutible workings of Divine Providence, our Brother, Benj. L. Harper has been suddenly called from this life. He was so thoroughly imbued with the spirit of his Master, and his life was such an illustration of the principles of his religion, we deem it a fit encomium to say, that we know no man better prepared to answer the summons without a moment's notice.

As a testimonial of the appreciation of Brother Harper, by Fraternal Lodge No. 37, F. A. M., be it

Resolved, Faithful, just and true in all his public and private relations, the community has lost one of its best citizens, his family a provident and fond husband and father, and this Lodge one of its most cherished members.

Resolved, Ardent in his attachment to the principles of our order—conscientious in the discharge of duty—his work ever properly squared, few, if any, have brought less reproach upon Masonry. The craft may well deplore the loss of such a member. While we bow in submission to the will of the Great "I Am," we humbly hope, when summoned to the Lodge Room above, we shall be DULY AND TRULY prepared, as was our deceased brother.

Resolved, That these resolutions be forwarded to THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, with request for publication, and the Secretary furnish the family of deceased with a copy of the same.

The Atlanta Constitution FOR 1872.

This year promises to be second to none in local and national importance. The great Presidential contest between the Democratic and Republican parties, or between Constitutionalism and the Rights of States upon the one side, and Centralism and Imperialism upon the other, will agitate the country to its remotest corners.

In State affairs the times will be no less eventful. Just emerging from a terrible crisis, the people of Georgia will soon see the final developments of the Radical drama enacted in the State since the close of the war. Besides, there will be the regular election for Governor.

THE CONSTITUTION has a corps of correspondents, domestic and foreign, unsurpassed by any journal in the South. It is published at the capital, and furnishes full Reports of Legislative Proceedings and the Supreme Court, together with Telegraphic and Commercial News from all parts of the World.

Being at the political centre of Georgia, it has superior advantages to obtain the latest political and general intelligence.

THE CONSTITUTION is now the OFFICIAL ORGAN of the State of Georgia and the Democratic party. Having been unanimously elected at the last session of the General Assembly. It is also the official paper of this city and county.

To the people of Southwest Georgia we desire to call attention to the fact, that THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION now reaches them with the Macon papers of the same date.

Every one who would keep up with the times, and have an intelligent, well-informed household, should by all means take his local paper and one FROM THE CAPITAL.

THE CONSTITUTION now visits every section of State, and as an advertising medium is equal to the best.

Editors Constitution: A City Judge is soon to be elected by our new Council, and every good citizen has a deep interest in the selection of a man of sterling worth, of legal ability and of legal experience. How the Big Bugs Spree It.

It is a soothing reflection to the humble slave of social peccadilloes to know that he has companionship in his little irregularities in the big bugs of the Government. The value of this soother can not be estimated. It is very encouraging.

The following statements will be a tender salve to many a poor chap who has been on a bender and landed in the calaboose for trifling indiscretions of spirituous indulgence. When the Government can unbend from its stately sobriety and get boozy, and do all sorts of wabbly didoes, the noble souls of common fellows, whose weak heads have succumbed to the irresistible seductions of a spree, will find exalted encouragement in the inebriating example.

Grant and Fish deserve the gratitude of every jolly old sot in the country.

A correspondent of the New York Sun, writing from Washington, under date of December 20th, says:

About five o'clock last evening the loungers in the main hall of the Arlington House, were astonished to see the door of the elevator open and President Grant and Don Hamilton Fish step out of it arm in arm. The President's face was as red as a boiled lobster, and the Secretary of State wore an expression like that of an owl which is suddenly brought into the full glare of the daylight. It immediately entered into the minds of those who were in the hall at the time that the President and the Secretary had been enjoying themselves pretty freely in one of the rooms up stairs.

The two paid no attention to anybody, but marched solemnly, and with stately tread, through the hall to the street door, where they stopped, and Grant went through some motions with his hands, which were undistinguishable in the darkness. At the same moment Mr. Fish tripped hurriedly back to the clerk's desk, and fumbled in the match safe until he had secured half a dozen matches. With these in his hands, and his face beaming all over with maudlin smiles, he skipped to the door again, scratching a match against the jamb, and held it obsequiously until Grant had lighted a cigar, which he had in his mouth. The two then locked arms once more, and meandered into darkness. This little incident was observed by Enquhan a dozen witnesses, and has created the [illegible] deal of talk this morning in certain fash[illegible] yond.

English Lessons for English People, by Rev. Edwin A. Abbott, M. A., and J. R. Seeley, M. A.

The study of the English language is exciting extraordinary interest everywhere at the present time. Separate chairs of English Literature are being established in the colleges of both continents. The rage for ancient classics is to some extent giving way to an earnest effort to develop the hidden wealth of our mother tongue.

The above work meets the popular demand. Its authors are ripe scholars and men of wide reputation. We believe that "English Lessons" would serve as an admirable textbook for our literary institutions. This is one of the many valuable publications of Roberts Brothers, Boston.

Opera.

There is no better test of the culture of a community than a taste for fine arts, and matters of cultivated refinement. Pictures, music, oratory, literature are all the subjects of polished taste. Show us a people that love and encourage these things liberally, and we will show you a people where the highest education has been added to inherent fondness for the beautiful and the elevating.

And it should be a special aim with parents to give children every opportunity of purifying, chastening, broadening and developing their natural capabilities for the artistic. The effect upon character cannot be estimated. The growing mind imbibes ideas of refinement, and habits of chaste sentiment that beautify life and preserve from evil.

It is not often that we have opportunities of seeing exhibitions of taste in their highest perfection. Such opportunities should be improved.

The opera company now playing here is a fine one. The members are true artists. Their music is in the best style of disciplined art.

A New Paper in Griffin.

Having, by experience abroad, become fully satisfied that Griffin is as good a place to live and make a living in as any in Georgia, I have made up my mind to return, and on the 16th day of January, commence the publication of a live morning paper, to be called "The Griffin Daily News."

The paper will be published in the interest of no party, clique, faction, or ring, or in the interest of any individual except myself.

It will be independent in politics—advocating only the right as it is given me to understand what is right.

The purpose of the paper will be to give the news, true news, news at home and from abroad, commercial, general and political news, all prepared in such a manner as to give the most of it in the most readable shape.

People who want to patronize such a paper as this, are invited to come up with their subscriptions and advertisements. The News will be printed on good clear type, at five dollars per annum for the daily, and one dollar and fifty cents per annum for the weekly.

A. M. SPEIGHTS.

December 27, 1871.

The Newspaper Press.

Rev. T. D. W. Talmage, of Brooklyn, in a recent sermon, presented the following earnest, stirring thoughts respecting the power and capabilities of the newspaper press. An instrumentality of such vast influence as is this in our day should be wielded by those who appreciate their momentous responsibility, and employ it for the improvement and elevation of their fellowmen. The eloquent discourse is reported phonographically in the Methodist:

"The newspaper is the great educator of the Nineteenth Century. There is no force compared with it. It is book, pulpit, platform, forum, all in one. And there is not an interest—religious, literary, commercial, scientific, agricultural or mechanical—that is not within its grasp. All our churches, and schools, and colleges, and asylums, and art galleries feel the quaking of the printing press.

In our pulpits we preach to a few hundreds or thousands of people; the newspaper addresses an audience of twenty thousand, fifty thousand, or two hundred thousand. We preach three or four times a week; they every morning or evening of the year. If they are right, they are gloriously right; if they are wrong, they are awfully wrong.

I find no difficulty in accounting for the world's advance. What has made the change? "Books," you say. No, sir. The vast majority of citizens do not read books. In the United States the people would not average one book a year for each individual. Whence then this intelligence—this capacity to talk about all themes, secular and religious, this acquaintance with science and art, this power to appreciate the beautiful and grand? Next to the Bible, the newspaper—swift-winged and everywhere present—flying over the fence, shoved under the door, tossed into the counting-house, laid on the work-bench hawked through the cars! All read it! White and black, German, Irishman, Swiss, Spaniard, American, old and young, good and bad, sick and well, before breakfast and after tea, Monday morning, Saturday night, Sunday and week day.

I consider the newspaper to be the grand agency by which the gospel is to be preached, ignorance cast out, oppression dethroned, crime extirpated, the world raised, heaven rejoiced, and God glorified. In the clanking of the printing press as the sheets fly out I hear the voice of the Lord Almighty proclaiming to all the dead nations of the earth, "Lazarus, come forth!" and to the retreating surges of darkness, "Let there be light."

"Nations are to be born in a day." Will this great in-rush into the kingdom of God come from the personal presence of missionary or philanthropist? No. When the time comes for that grand demonstration of the Spirit, I think the press in all the earth will make the announcement, and give the call to the nations. As at some telegraphic center, an operator will send the messages North and South, and East and West, San Francisco and Heart's Content catching the flash at the same instant; so, standing at some center to which shall reach all the electric wires that cross the continent and undergird the sea, some one shall, with the forefinger of the right hand click the instrument that shall thrill through all lands, across all islands, under all seas, through all palaces, into all dungeons, and startle both hemispheres with the news, that in a few moments shall rush out from the ten thousand times ten thousand printing presses of the earth: "Jesus hath come! Fall into line, all ye nations! Glory to God in the highest, and on earth, peace, good-will toward men! Hallelujah!"

The Free School Question.

FOREST HILL, MILTON CO.,
December 26, 1871.

Editors Constitution: The failure of the Legislature, during its late session, to act definitely upon the question of popular education, excited in me a sense of deep regret. I regard it as a matter of vital importance to the real interests of the State, as lying at the very foundation of its material, moral and social advancement. No argument is needed to establish this view in the present age and generation; the effects of the system are visible in the prosperity of the Northern States, and it is the part of wisdom not to close the eye and ear to salutary instruction even when the teacher is our enemy.

It is to be hoped that our law-makers will take this matter up at their next session and act promptly. The pecuniary aspect should not deter them. It is false economy to keep money in the pocket rather than to expend it in the introduction of knowledge into the head. It is pandering to the sordid disposition, rather than fostering the intellectual faculties. The people of the Empire State of the South, although they have been robbed, after the previous impoverishment by the war, are amply able to sustain a good school system, and to pay for the education of their children. The Legislature is vested with the power to enact a law for this purpose, and it is a duty incumbent upon them to do it. They are empowered to enact laws for the punishment of crime, a fortiori, they are empowered to enact laws to prevent crime. And who is bold enough to say that to elevate the people intellectually, does not directly tend to elevate them socially and morally, and hence to remove further and further the temptation to violate law.

Some act unobjectionable in every feature, save the expenditure of money, can be devised for the accomplishment of the purpose. The machinery of its operation should be simple in the highest degree. A superintendent for each county to be selected by the grand jury. His duty to examine applicants for teachers' positions, employ them, and exercise a general supervision of the educational affairs of his county. State appropriations to be paid to the Ordinaries by the State Treasurer. Deficits in teachers' salaries to be made up by direct tax upon the property-holders of the several school districts. Schools to continue uninterruptedly for at least six months in the year. This plan will work satisfactorily when tried. And it will be discovered that the tax paid for this specific purpose, even by the largest property-holders, will, as a general thing, be less in amount than the tuition fees hitherto required of them. Another important feature is, that such plan will create no invidious distinctions on account of wealth; all are taxed alike, and no one is the recipient of a poor fund. Hence the attendance will be general, and the benefits of the system be widely diffused.

These suggestions have been thrown out in the hope that the subject may be taken up by the press and the people and thoroughly discussed, and that the Legislature may do something for the thousands of children in this noble State, who, with bright faculties and immense capacities for future good, are growing in ignorance, and are growing rapidly up without a promise and without a hope. Very respectfully,

C. H. C.

For the Ladies.

[CONDENSED FOR THE CONSTITUTION.]

A country editor says that when he looks at a woman's head, he is puzzled to tell which is switch.

The women of Scotland are crowing loudly because thirty of their sex have been admitted to Edinburgh University.

Mrs. Eleanor D. Rockwood, of Boston, has been invited to take the editorship of a leading political journal in Essex county, Massachusetts.

The fashion of wearing eye glasses is becoming more and more prevalent among very young ladies. It does not appear to be affectation, but probably arises from the fondness inherent in the female mind for spectacles of all kinds.

The New York Mail asserts that "Many fashionable ladies who are partial to low-necked dresses, and have not a pretty neck, wear a false neck of wax or alabaster, which, when a heavy necklace is worn with it, can hardly be detected from the real article.

MARYLAND.

ANNAPOLIS, December 29.—Prof. R. S. McCulloch, a Professor in the Washington and Lee University, testified that Aikens' tests is insufficient to prove the presence of antimony, and considers Aikens' analysis radically defective, because he did not get the metal that is so numerous in experimenting with choral; also yellow jassomine produced red precipitate, closely resembling such as antimony would give. These experiments were made in the presence of Drs. Reese and Genth, and others.

PENNSYLVANIA.

PHILADELPHIA, December 29.—C. F. Heiss, J. P. Myers and B. F. McCortney were held to bail in the sum of $2,000 each.

H. C. Warlick, Miles Carrol, R. Ross, Stuart, Josiah Morton and Samuel G. Brown.

The trial of Dr. Edward Avery, charged with conspiracy to prevent colored men voting in October 1871, and to punish them for voting in October 1870, was begun to-day.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, December 29.—Alarmed at Gladstone's republican tendencies, the conservative section of the Liberals, led by Duke Somerset and Viscount Halifax, are seeking to form a coalition with the Tories for the purpose of electing the Right Hon. Mr. Boncorie as Speaker of the House of Commons, instead of Mr. Broud, and to compel the retirement of Gladstone.

MIDNIGHT DISPATCHES.

NEW YORK, December 29.—The elevator of the Fifth Avenue Hotel gave way this evening. Four servants were seriously injured

G. Von Norl was sworn in as Commissioner of Public Works. He will take immediate possession of the office.

ILLINOIS.

CHICAGO, December 29.—The special Grand Jury impannelled to investigate the bribery and corruption charged against certain members of the Common Council, made a partial presentation to-day. They found a true bill against two Aldermen and two ex-Aldermen. The work of the Grand Jury is but partially accomplished. It is expected that every guilty member will be indicted, and this will probably weed out half of the board.

The report that J. Young Scammon had purchased the Republican, is confirmed.

MICHIGAN.

DETROIT, December 29.—Alexis had a public reception in the City Hall to-day. He will leave for Chicago to-morrow.

ENGLAND.

LONDON, December 29.—A letter is published from the Queen, in which she says she desires to express her deep sense of touching sympathy exhibited for her family by the whole nation at the illness of her dear son Wales. The universal expressions of sympathy, she says, has made an ineffaceable impression on her heart. The letter concludes with the hope that her faithful subjects will continue their prayers for the complete recovery of the Prince.

CHEESE IN CANS.—The proprietor of an Illinois factory communicates to the Prairie Farmer some notes of his experience in putting up cheese in cases. It must be previously well cured, then sealed air-tight, and kept in a cool place. Thus treated, it is safe from flies, retains all its weight, and grows more mellow and fine-flavored, and no loss occurs from exposure in shipping. Mr. Willard, in his report of dairy practices in England, states that the dealers there have long been in the habit of using these cases in sending cheese to the East Indies and to tropical climates, and that, ordinarily, it reaches its destination in as good condition as when first put up. Some of the small German cheese are cased in tin, but the quantity is very limited. The cost of packing thus is an objection, and the practice could not, Mr. W. thinks, be adopted with profit, excepting for shipment to countries where comparatively high prices prevail, or for small lots of "fancy quality."

THE OLDEN TIME.—In his speech on civil service reform, the other day in the Senate, Mr. Trumbull says:

In olden times removal from subordinate government officers were of rare occurrence. There were only nine removals during the eight years of Washington's administration, and only one during that of the elder Adams. Even Jefferson, who, when he came into power, found the offices filled with his political adversaries, removed only thirty-nine persons during the two terms. Madison removed but five in his eight years Monroe only nine, and John Q. Adams only two. In those days men were appointed to office for their fidelity to the Constitution, their ability and integrity and not for mere partisan reasons.

☞ A young dandy, who has just returned from abroad, appeared at a New York ball last week, elegantly attired in full dress suit, with diamond studs and sleeve buttons, point lace necktie, three-buttoned gloves, hair powdered with blonde powder, French heels to his boots, a strong suspicion of rouge on his cheeks, and a piece of court-plaster on his forehead. The girls made so much fun of him that he retired before supper.—Picayune.

☞ A clergyman wished to know whether the children of his parishioners understood their Bible. He asked a lad whom he found one day reading the Old Testament, who was the wickedest man.

"Moses, to be sure," said the boy.

"Moses," exclaimed the parson, "how can that be?"

"Why," said the lad, "he broke all the commandments at once."

WHO IS OLD?—A wise man will never rust out. As long as he can move and breathe he will be doing for himself, his neighbor or his posterity. Who is old? Not the man of energy—not the day laborer in science, art or benevolence—but he only who suffers his energies to waste away and the springs of life to become motionless: on whose hands the hours drag heavily, and to whom all things wear the garb of gloom.

☞ "Ma, I am going to make some soft soap for the fair this fall!" said a beautiful miss of seventeen to her mother, the other day. "What put that notion into your head, Sally?" "Why, ma, the premium is just what I have been wanting." "Pray what is it?" "A 'Worcester Farmer,' I hope he will be a good looking one."

☞ A rural poet indited a sonnet to his sweetheart, entitled "I kissed her sub r sa." The compositor knew better than that, and set it up in printer's Latin: "I kissed her snub nose."

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.

In the inscrutible workings of Divine Providence, our Brother, Benj. L. Harper has been suddenly called from this life. He was so thoroughly imbued with the spirit of his Master, and his life was such an illustration of the principles of his religion, we deem it a fit encomium to say, that we know no man better prepared to answer the summons without a moment's notice.

As a testimonial of the appreciation of Brother Harper, by Fraternal Lodge No. 37, F. A. M., be it

Resolved, Faithful, just and true in all his public and private relations, the community has lost one of its best citizens, his family a provident and fond husband and father, and this Lodge one of its most cherished members.

Resolved, Ardent in his attachment to the principles of our order—conscientious in the discharge of duty—his work ever properly squared, few, if any, have brought less reproach upon Masonry. The craft may well deplore the loss of such a member. While we bow in submission to the will of the Great "I Am," we humbly hope, when summoned to the Lodge Room above, we shall be DULY AND TRULY prepared, as was our deceased brother.

Resolved, That these resolutions be forwarded to THE ATLANTA CONSTITUTION, with request for publication, and the Secretary furnish the family of deceased with a copy of the same.

IMPURE BREATH.

AMONG all the disagreeable consequences that follow fast the decay of the teeth, an impure breath must be the most unpleasant and mortifying to its possessor, as it is the most inexcusable and offensive in society. How often its possessor experiences a distant coldness shown even from the best of friends, or perhaps the one most fondly cherished, from this source. You are ignorant of the cause yourself, the subject is so delicate—your most intimate friend will not mention it. Why not remove this one great barrier to your health, beauty and happiness, at once, by using that justly popular dentifrice, fragrant Sozodont, the most convenient, pleasant and efficacious gem for the toilet the world has ever produced.

THE STRAINS THE ANGELS SING.

It came upon the midnight clear,
That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth,
[illegible]
"Peace on the earth, good will to men,
From heaven's all-gracious King!"
The world in solemn stillness lay,
To hear the angels sing.

Still through the cloven skies they come,
With peaceful wings unfurled;
And still their heavenly music floats
O'er all the weary world.
Above its sad and lowly plains,
They bend on heavenly wing,
And ever o'er its Babel sounds,
The blessed angels sing.

Yet with the woes of sin and strife,
The world has suffered long;
Beneath the angel strain have rolled
Two thousand years of wrong;
And men at war with men hear not
The love song which they bring;
Oh, hush the noise, ye men of strife!
And hear the angels sing.

And ye beneath life's crushing load,
Whose forms are bending low;
Who toil along the climbing way,
With painful steps and slow;
Look now—for glad and golden hours
Come swiftly on the wing;
Oh, rest beside the weary road,
And hear the angels sing!

For, lo! the days are hastening on,
By prophet words foretold,
When, with the ever-circling years,
Comes round the age of gold;
When peace shall, over all the earth,
Its ancient splendor fling,
And the whole world send back the song
Which now the angels sing!

THE STRAINS THE ANGELS SING.

It came upon the midnight clear,
  That glorious song of old,
From angels bending near the earth,
  To touch their harps of gold;
"Peace to the earth, good will to men,
  From heaven's all-gracious King!"
The world in solemn stillness lay,
  To hear the angels sing.

Still through the cloven sky they come,
  With peaceful wings unfurled;
And still their heavenly music floats
  O'er all the weary world.
Above its sad and lowly plains,
  They bend on heavenly wing,
And ever, o'er its Babel sounds,
  The blessed angels sing.

Yet with the woes of sin and strife,
  The world has suffered long;
Beneath the angel strain hath rolled
  Two thousand years of wrong!
And men at war with men hear not
  The love song which they bring;
Oh, hush the noise, ye men of strife!
  And hear the angels sing.

And ye beneath life's crushing load,
  Whose forms are bending low;
Who toil along the climbing way,
  With painful steps and slow:
Look now—for glad and golden hours
  Come swiftly on the wing;
Oh, rest beside the weary road,
  And hear the angels sing!

For, lo! the days are hastening on,
  By prophet words foretold,
When, with the ever-circling years,
  Comes round the age of gold;
When peace shall, over all the earth,
  Its ancient splendor fling,
And the whole world send back the song
  Which now the angels sing!
